

Instructions for Presiders

Presiders are asked to:

1. Arrive in your assigned room prior to the start of your assigned time block (when possible) to greet attendees as they enter. You may also wish to introduce yourself to the audio-visual technician, as you may need to call upon him or her for assistance. Because of tight scheduling, please note that not every room may be accessible in advance.
2. Introduce yourself to each presenter and review with them the order of events and the amount of time allotted for their presentation. Please be sure presenters understand that their assigned time is inclusive of prepared statements, as well as a question and answer period. Please discourage the use of music stands for handouts, as separate tables have been provided for these.
3. Welcome the audience. Encourage attendees to sit in the front section of the room, or if attendees are standing in the back of the room, ask them to fill in the seating. Please also make an announcement to please turn off all cellular phones as a courtesy for all in attendance.
4. Introduce each presenter by providing their name and institutional affiliation ONLY. Please do NOT read presenters' biographies (attendees will have access to bios in the Guidebook application). If you are the presider for a panel, you need only to introduce the panel moderator, who will introduce the rest of the panel.
5. It is unlikely that there will be enough time for an engaged question-and-answer session following each presentation, thus we have invited presenters to consider reserving space in the Discussion Lounge for this purpose. The Discussion Lounge is dedicated open seating areas designed to encourage one-on-one or small group conversations inspired by each presentation. If the presenter you are introducing has reserved space in the Discussion Lounge, please announce this planned time during your introductory remarks.
6. Please begin on time and do not change the order of the presentations or the times. If a speaker cancels or does not show up, please announce this and either promote discussion during that time or declare a break. It is important that you stick to the printed schedule, as attendees move from room to room and will plan on hearing the next presentation at the scheduled time.
7. Keep your session(s) on schedule. This is the most important duty of the presider! Remember, if your block runs too long, every successive session in your room will run behind as well. A set of color-coded flash cards will be provided in each room for you to communicate to each presenter that they have 3 minutes remaining (green), 1 minute remaining (yellow), or that their time has run out and must conclude immediately (red). If a presenter continues past their final warning, please stand and thank them for their work, then continue to the next presenter. Leave the flash cards in the presentation room for the next presider.
8. Within our conference space, certain presentation rooms are separated by air walls rather than solid walls. In such instances, presenters should be made aware that audio examples played at high volume levels will likely detract from neighboring sessions. If appropriate, please remind presenters to maintain a reasonable decibel level.
9. Acknowledge each presenter following their presentation and thank them for their participation.
10. Please note that the Program Committee has scheduled at least 5 minutes between each presentation. Participants have been instructed to prepare their area and set up any required audio-visual equipment during this time.
